

45 Of The Most Romantic Things To Do This Valentine's Day In London

Cupid is ready to hit you with his best shot at some London's most romantic, fun and even competitive activities this February.

 VAISHNAVI PANDEY - STAFF WRITER · 14 FEBRUARY, 2025

SHARE THE ARTICLE

Photo: Mikhail_Kayl, Shutterstock

Whether you're a reluctant participant, a hopeless romantic, or just looking for an excuse to have a couple of cocktails, we've found some pretty cracking things to do in London this Valentine's Day (and on the weekends around it).

From good, old-fashioned dinner dates in romantic restaurants to lively, competitive games, there's plenty for a first date, 100th date, and a great time with pals. Get inspired, and fall in love with the capital again...

Privacy

Cahoots

Keeping things fun is key to keeping romance alive and what better fun than drinking tipples in a hidden underground 1940s tube-themed bar? Cahoots will be sure to inject some liveliness and spirit into your Valentine's Day festivities, with its spiffing swing music, scallywags and rabble-rousers, vintage-themed everything.

Absinthe Parlour

Stimulate the senses with an Absinthe & Aphrodisiac Tasting this Valentine's with Devil's Botany! Three botanically-charged absinthes will be paired with a selection of irresistible aphrodisiacs to arouse the taste buds for £35.

Alma

Celebrate Valentine's Day at Alma in Soho with a unique cocktail menu crafted in collaboration with Mijenta Tequila, featuring six romantic creations available exclusively on February 14th.

The Surprise

The Surprise, a cosy pub on the corner of Chelsea's Christchurch Terrace which is independent and proudly local. Cupid inspired cocktails and a wonderful wine list complement the dishes and make for a laid-back yet stylish Valentine's celebration.

The Walmer Castle

Spend Valentine's in the warm and cosy Walmer Castle pub which brings all the elements of a charming community pub to the buzzy Notting Hill neighbourhood.

38. Treat your lover to something sweet